

What is Workplace Giving?

Workplace Giving provides charities like ours with the reliable income we need. Your support allows us to reach more people, right across the state. Regular donations also help us purchase the extra food we need when farmers and supermarkets can't provide enough, meaning we can fill the gaps and reliably supply our community with the healthy, fresh food they deserve – and much, much more.

"Your regular, reliable donations are helping us feed 69,000 Victorians, every single day. With your support we can nourish our community, one meal at a time."

Dave McNamara
CEO Foodbank Victoria

An easy way to change a lot by giving a little is through Workplace Giving.

Workplace Giving is also known as payroll giving and – you guessed it! – involves contributing regular and consistent donations through your workplace. Employees donate a nominated, fixed portion of their pay on a regular basis – e.g. $25 a week, fortnight or month – to a charity like us.

The deduction is taken out pre-tax, so there's no messy paperwork for you to fill out at the end of the financial year.

It's a great way to set and forget your giving, as long as you don't forget about what an incredible person you are for doing it! To learn more, you can read the ATO's full explainer here.

Let's talk benefits!

Since your donation is deducted pre-tax, your regular donations will also receive maximum tax benefits – meaning less money out of your pocket. For example...

Pre-tax,
you give

$25

It only costs you

$16.88

But Foodbank
receives the full

$25

(enough to distribute 50 meals)!
